---

PATRICK KANGI

After coming to faith at the age of 20, Patrick felt called to share the gospel. Seven years later, he joined Operation Mobilisation, travelling the world aboard an ocean liner to spread the Good News. He later trained at Belfast Bible College and joined LCM's training programme in 2004.

Patrick leads LCM's mission team for Kensington, Chelsea, Westminster and South Brent, focusing on reaching seniors and residents of council estates. Alongside his team, he equips churches to connect with these communities and share the love of Christ.

HANNAH
FLEMING-HILL

Serving in the communications team in the Baptist Union, Hannah is passionate about leveraging digital tools, technology and social media to build God's Kingdom and amplify the voices of social action groups.

As a digital missionary and communications consultant, Hannah works with churches, charities and organisations to help them navigate the digital space effectively, share their stories, and engage their communities.

Alongside her work, Hannah is doing a MA in Digital Theology course at Spurgeon's College.

STEPHEN MACLEAN

Stephen chose to follow Jesus from an early age and moved to London to serve with London City Mission (LCM) in 1999.

After 10 years at LCM, he served with two local Baptist churches as a youth leader and assistant pastor, becoming minister of Cricklewood Baptist Church in 2013. By God's grace, the church has grown and formed many links with the local community.

Stephen also leads the SCC team and is passionate about helping the church to flourish by collaborating with others to serve the local community.

MARTIN ALLEN

Martin serves as the Minister of Finchley Baptist Church and has also worked as a licensed London Black Cab driver for over 25 years.

Mark sees both roles as integral to his calling to serve God. His work in the church and on the road provide opportunities to connect with the community and engage in faith-based conversations.

Mark is particularly passionate about coming alongside young men and helping them to grow in their faith. Evangelism also remains a central focus of his ministry.
